In the romantic drama by Victor Mapes called "Captain Barrington" nearly 100 persons will be employed. This play which is to open a three nights engagement at the Court Square Theatre, Springfield, Oct. 5th, will serve to introduce Mr. Charles Richman as a dramatic star. The play is distinctly American, being of the Revolutionary period.

There will be a lively curiosity to see how Joseph Kilgour will play the part of George Washington when the romantic drama "Captain Barrington" reaches the Globe Theatre. Mr. Kilgour is a man of splendid physique, standing nearly six feet two inches.

~

Miss Frances Ring who is shortly to be seen at the Globe Theatre with Charles Richman in "Captain Barrington" is a sister of Miss Blanche Ring, now starring in a musical comedy in New York. She was Andrew Mack's leading woman last season.

~

Considerable interest is being manifested in dramatic circles in the forthcoming production of "Captain Barrington" by Victor Mapes, in which Mr. Charles Richman will be starred by Messrs. Weber ann Fields. "Captain Barrington" is an American play, in which one of the central figures is the American national hero, George Washington.

~

Miss Suzanne Sheldon who is leading woman for Charlas Richman in "Captain Barrington" was leading woman for E. H. Sothern in "If I Were King." Her sister recently was married in London to Anthony Hope Hawkins author of "The Prisoner of Zenda," "Rupert of Hentzau," and "The Dolly Dialogues."

AN INVITATION

Jas. F. McGahan and Jas. H. O'Meara have very recently purchased and entirely renovated and refitted the Cafe at 697 Washington Street, just opposite the Theatre, formerly conducted by E. C. Fitzgerald. Their intention is to conduct a resort which will fully meet the requirements of this section of Boston, and a cordial invitation to call is extended to all patrons of this Theatre. A large line of the finest brands of Wines and Liquors and a choice selection of Foreign and Domestic Cigars has been purchased and every effort is being put forth by the gentlemen above named to make this the most popular and widely known cafe in this locality

Mrs. Charles Craig who plays "Mandy" the Victor Mapes's new play "Captain Barrington" which opens at the Globe The tre on Monday night, Oct. 12th, is fitted to the best part she has ever played, and it is expected that she will win great favor with Boston audiences upon her appearance here. She has an infectious laugh which will certainly wake up the risibilities of all who hear her.

Messrs. Weber and Field's certainly have surrounded their new dramatic star Charles Richman, who is to be seen at the Globe Theatre shortly in "Captain Barrington" with a company of players of exceptional merit.

They include Miss Suzanne Sheldon, Miss Florence Wickliffe, Miss Frances Ring, Mrs. Craig, Joseph Kilgour, George Osborne and those two sterling Boston favorites of the old Museum days, George W. Wilson and William Redmond.

Mr. H. D James, who plays "Peter," a colored servant in "Captain Barrington," Victor Mapes's new American play, with Charles Richman as the star, which opens at the Globe Theatre on Monday night, Oct. 12th, is favorably known to playgoers in Boston. Mr. James created a genuine sensation a few years ago by his clever work when in the support of William Gillette in "Secret Service." The scene in which he extracts the bullets from a number of rifles was one of the most effective of the play, and his pantomimic work was superb. In "Captain Barrington," Mr. James appears in light comedy work.

William Collier, the comedian, who is so well remembered here in "On the Quiet," and "The Diplomat," is meeting with marked success in his latest play, "Personal", at the Bijon Theatre, New York. Mr. Collier is booked to play at The Globe later in the season.

~

Miss Suzanne Sheldon, who is Charles Richman's leading woman, is said to be one of the handsomest women on the stage. Her sister recently was married in London to Anthony Hope Hawkins, the author of "The Prisoner of Zenda", "The Dolly Dialogues", and other stories.

~

Martin Harvey, the famous English player, is expected to arrive shortly in this country.

CHARLES RICHMAN

An interesting feature in "Captain Barrington" Victor Mapes's new American play in which Mr. Charles Richman makes his stellar appearance in Boston is the singing by a double quartette. The music was written especially for this production by Mr Manuel Klein. The drinking chorus promises to become very popular.

The friends of Mr. Chas. Richman, who are legion, are waiting with pleasurable anticipation his stellar debut in Boston, which will be made at the Globe Theatre on Monday night, Oct. 12th, in Mr. Victor Mapes's new American play "Captain Barrington." Mr. Richman needs no introduction to Boston playgoers. He has scored several triumphs in this city, but it is confidently expected that he will eclipse his former successes in this new production. In "Captain Barrington" he will play a dual role, two strongly contrasted parts, one a serious, staid young continental officer, the other, a gay and rollicking Captain of the British army.

A curious fact in connection with the play of "Captain Barrington," Mr. Victor Mapes's author, is that while the hero of the play is a continental officer, called Lieutenant Fielding, it is the British Captain who gives the title to it, and who is much less important than the other in the play. The reason for this will be understood after the play has been produced.

In one scene of "Captain Barrington," the new play which opens up the Globe Theatre on Monday night, Oct. 12th, Mr. Richman is called upon to change his entire costume, and to assume an entirely different character within 45 seconds.

~

Mr. George W. Wilson, who with the late lamented William Warren shared the love of the patrons of the old Boston Museum, and who is known in the theatrical as "The Man of Many Parts," having created more characters than any other man on the American stage, has an important role in Victor Mapes's new American play "Captain Barrington" which opens at the Globe Theatre, Monday night, Oct. 12. As "Gaspar Moulton," a crotchetty old man, he is said to have one of the greatest character parts he ever essayed.

OCTOBER OBSERVATIONS.

The apple trees with their crimson fruit
Bend down to the golden grain,
And the cricket chirps in his ebon suit
This song to his shrill refrain :
When you are in doubt, to Osgood's go,
For nowhere else is the price so low.

The chestnuts fall by the vine clad wall,
And the squirrels pert and spry;
As they chatter away, all seem to say :
When in doubt of Osgood buy.

Chestnuts are falling—our prices are already down—though you will find no chestnuts among our ample lines of new Furniture, Draperies, Carpets, China, Stoves and Ranges. When chestnuts burrs open—doors should be kept closed—when the chestnut comes out of its burr—the ground hog goes into its burrow—beech nuts are not found on the beach—when they stick they don't fall—yet a stick makes them fall—most nuts flower in the spring—the doughnut is always in stock.
